Supporting Narrative

Nationally a significant proportion of the primary school workforce are female. Within Embark, and the sector generally, lower paid positions (cleaners, lunchtime supervisors, teaching assistants) are traditionally female dominant; which has an impact on the overall gender pay gap. These categories of staff are paid in accordance with the Derbyshire County Council Local Government pay scales. The pay gap narrows when analysing the mean pay by quartile by category of staff either teaching or non teaching staff. Variances will partly be related to the impact of career breaks and part-time hours on career progression. Embark remains committed to equal pay and ensuring equality of progression for all employees, irrespective of gender or working hours
